National Institute on Deafness and other Communication Disorders (NIDCD) Training Program in Hearing, Balance and Chemical Senses @ The University of Michigan

Aim: To encourage qualified students of diverse backgrounds to develop research interests, and to pursue dissertation research, on topics relevant to the NIDCD mission, especially as it pertains to understanding sensory systems and their disorders.

Research Areas:
In vivo and in vitro Physiology
Behavioral Neuroscience
Neuroimaging
Molecular Neuroscience
Genetics

Training Experience:
Career development
Community outreach
Faculty/peer support
Relevant coursework
Sponsored seminars

Training Faculty:

Questions? Contact Dr. Susan Shore (sushore@umich.edu), Director of the HBCS training program